

Unique CME-accredited lecture series in the Medical Humanities focussing on art, creativity and health, with a special emphasis on the older person

The National Gallery of Ireland, together with the Arts Office of the Adelaide and Meath Hospital, (Tallaght Hospital), are presenting a series of lectures entitled "Medicine and The Arts", exploring the relationship between art, creativity and health, with a special emphasis on the older person.

The ICGP and the RCPI have both approved this lecture series for CME accreditation which qualifies for GMS study leave and Medical Council Competence Assurance Structure (CAS) credits participants. This is the first such series of art and medicine lectures to be awarded CME accreditation.

The series is supported by the Robert Graves Post Graduate Centre and Aois agus Eolas (the Centre for Ageing, Neuroscience and the Humanities) at Tallaght Hospital.

Thursday-15 November '07

- 6.30 Introduction
Prof. Desmond O'Neill
The Adelaide & Meath Hospital, Dublin
- 6.45 Old Masters: Great Artist in Older Age
Dr Thomas Dormandy

Thursday-22 November '07

- 6.30 Ageing and The Self-Portrait
Dr. Philippe Abastado, Hôpital Européen Georges Pompidou, Histoire de la Médecine, Université René Descartes, Paris.

Thursday-29 November'07

- 6.30 The Art of Ageing
Prof. Pat Thane, Leverhulme Professor of Contemporary British History
Director, Centre for Contemporary British History, Institute of Historical Research, Senate House, Malet Street, London

Details

Lectures are free and take place in the Gallery Lecture Theatre at 6.30 pm. For more information, contact Hilary Moss-Arts Officer, Tallaght Hospital (01 414 2076) or Joanne Drum at the National Gallery of Ireland (01 663 3505).

Arts Office
Adelaide and Meath Hospital Dublin
Incorporating the National Children's Hospital

Aois agus Eolas
Centre for Ageing, Neuroscience and the Humanities
www.ageandknowledge.ie